

2 new ideas (November 1968) for CHMC

- 1) Artists eisel and drawing crayon could be put in hallway or a room within O.R. so that we could draw plan of operation to show to students and scrib nurse just before we start or after we finish
- 2) Could also use one of these in lab or my office for discussions and plans (like at ABCOR)
- 3) Could also have list of pediatricins office numbers or answering services by ph phone in O.R. and ask everyone to call after writing orders.

-Reward for residents:

- They can do my cases

-Just as in medical school there are some things which seem distasteful and without immediate reward, but this habit if thoroughyl ingrained will gaurentee success at least in clinical practice (just as there are certain habits which if learned early will guarentee success in research or in teaching). (or in administrative matters)
