

The parish are all well, would be glad to hear you pleasant once more. My love to my folks, I'm glad to hear they are so well. He send what Pa wants the first chance. Yours so truly Mary

New York Sep. 11.

Dear W. I direct this to you that you may see it and think whether you can consent to my Northboro' scheme.

When do I look for you? Call and give my love to Mrs. Dedborn, I am yours.

My Mr. Frothingham who arrived this morning a little before six I heard that you are reached Boston in safety, my dear W. Mr. Paalstien got home the morning after you left. He looks quite well, and has but a trifling cough. They sent for me and the baby to spend the day.
The one after they returned, and we went.
Henry was very good, but his mouth was sealed in silence, & his mind turned in the utmost astonishment at all he saw and heard. They urged me to come and stay with him all the time you were gone, and at least to dine every day, but I do not feel enough to go, and they do not dine till 1/4 past three. The engravings are most splendid.
Mrs. Rusolle sent for me too but I did not go. Dr. Paine, Mrs. Cary, Miss' Prouty, Mrs. Fox all &c have called, I have made some calls Went to see Mrs. Wood. She has a sweet little girl, or going to name it Mary Upham

I think I shall like Ann. She went to market yesterday morning, bought some fish among other things, and I had a chowder for dinner. To day I had dinner as I tho's it proper for Mr. F. but I told him he must accept any more promising invitation, and he went to Mr. Ball's. All the gentlemen asked him, I believe. He is going to H. Hedgwick's, this eve. He preached a fine sermon and the word became flesh and dwelt among us, and was liked, better than last winter. Mr. Sewall was very much pleased. The rats have eat the bellows so much that it gave no sound, and our music was entirely vocal. The church looks beautifully and we had a goodly congregation, many more than I expected to see. I rec'd a letter from Pa. to you enclosing money for Andrew. He has not been here, and I do not see what I can do till you return - Ask Pa. if he got a letter I wrote him from Foulmington? And yesterday came Henry's letter from Pa. to tell you that the church would not be opened. My best love to him and say I expect a visit from him this fall, or winter, and that not excuse him from it. How you must miss sweet little Edward from among the little children. Give a great deal of love to your Father, Mother, Eliza and all the children, and treasure up all of Jo's M. E. to tell me. Steal M. E. if you can get a chance as you come away. Then I should be sure to see her father as I long to. I'm glad to hear that Helen and little L. are better. You'll go to Fingham of course, and take my love with you about. Will you ask your brother John to give you a recipe for the materials of indelible ink, and at the same time make my love acceptable to him? I did not get a letter from you by Mr. F. or any body else my dear Wm and the first word was a p.s. to H's letter just this moment. I began this many days ago, but kept it expecting every day to hear from you I meant to have sent by Mr. Fox but I ^{was} ~~wrote~~ ^{was} ~~wrote~~ that day, & that I'd till I heard. I'm comforted to all goes well with you. I've just written to ask Harriet to return with you would it not be a good plan ask Henry's consent, for I want her to bring the children, both, or one, if he will not spare two. Bring them if you can, but I do not want any body else, I believe. Joseph Willard called this morning. is coming to dine perhaps stay, don't be jealous, and you know he is not wout to be a devotee I had no one to go with me and I went alone.

 Mr. Bates saw the house. Some did not go in the eve. but I did not choose they should it of our sleep is pretty well. Sweet as can be, When Ann slept hard in the entry he calls out Pa Pa.
 My love to the dear Mrs. Shyler, tele her every body is enquiring for her and wishing her back I do not see that I would go to Philadelphia but I had a but I was very glad to see him. You say that you were not at home to enjoy his visit. I sent right off to market. Roast Pork, squash, potatoes, arrow pudding, peas. I'm so sorry you can't see him.

 He seems just as he used, and is greatly disappointed at missing you. Mr. F. preached very finely in the evening the reasons why Chr. does not produce more effect. People were delighted
