

As Mr. Waterhouse is a Student of Medicine and will necessarily be at considerable expence in the prosecution of his Studies, and preparation for practice, in which he will no doubt be often call'd to exercise not only his talents; but also his humanity & Charity for the relief of his suffering fellow creatures. He is therefore most heartily welcome to what Judgement, time, and medicines, I employ'd in inoculating him for, & bringing him thro' the Small Pox; and he will accept of them (I hope) free of all expence from ~~his~~ ^{his} Humble Servant
